I believe that much of this “educational material” is utter nonsense and contrary to good moral and ethical societal traditions that have been with us since biblical times. In my opinion, there is enough information available to the student should he or she wish to have access to it (how on God’s good earth did you get to your positions without this proposed mandatory education?). If you feel that the student must have this information, whether or not solicited, then the State’s educational system is a failure, and maybe, just maybe, this effort may actually cause confusion and damage to students at great expense to the taxpayers.
