RE: Letter Regarding House Bill 7208 – An Act Relating to Taxation – Property Tax Relief

Dear Chair Abney:

I am writing on behalf of the Rhode Island Department of Revenue, Division of Taxation (“Division”), to: i) express concerns regarding issues with proposed House Bill 7208 as currently drafted; ii) explain the background and current statutory context in order to clarify the intended and unintended consequences of this bill; and iii) make recommendations and request your support in implementing those recommendations.

This letter is not intended as a position in support of or opposition to the bill, but only as recommendations on drafting to provide clarity in the bill and to aid tax administration and compliance.

As you know, this bill amends R.I. Gen. Laws § 44-33-9, entitled “Property Tax Relief – Computation of Credit,” per the explanation, with the intent of increasing the income range up to fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and tax credit up to eight hundred fifty dollars ($850) for elderly and disabled persons who own or rent their homes. The effective date is upon passage.

There are several potential issues with the bill that impact tax administration, including, but not limited to:

- As currently drafted, the bill’s language does not specify an end date for the previous increase in the maximum credit for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2022, which could have a cumulative effect and lead to the potential for amended returns and refund claims for prior tax years. This does not appear to be the intent of the bill and creates unintended statutory gaps and consequences in the administration of the tax credit.
- The effective date for the increase in the threshold is upon passage. However, the Division would respectfully request that the language be changed so that the effective date is tied to a tax year (i.e., effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2025).

The Division takes no position with respect to the remainder of the proposed legislation. Rather, the Division is concerned solely with the issues of clarity, tax compliance, and tax administration. As such, the Division respectfully suggests that the bill be redrafted for clarity.

I look forward to working with you to address the issues raised in this letter and appreciate your consideration.

Very truly yours,

Neena S. Savage
Tax Administrator
