Re: Opposition to Proposed Cigarette Excise Tax Increase

Dear Chairman Abney, Vice Chairman Slater, and Members of the House Finance Committee:

I am writing on behalf of Cumberland Farms, to express our opposition to certain provisions in Governor McKee's proposed budget—specifically, the proposed $0.75 per-pack increase in the state's excise tax on cigarettes.

Rhode Island already ranks third in the nation for cigarette excise taxes. This increase would move the state to second, behind only New York. Experience from other high-tax states demonstrates that excise taxes can only be increased so much before they stop generating additional revenue. In fact, when New York raised its cigarette tax to $5.35 per pack in 2024, the state's own budget projections anticipated revenue losses of $13 million, $25 million, $24 million, and $22 million in successive years between 2024 and 2027. Rhode Island should reasonably expect a similar outcome.

Cumberland Farms operates more than fifty retail locations statewide, giving us a firsthand understanding of the Rhode Island convenience and tobacco/nicotine marketplace. This proposal would almost certainly send customers to neighboring Massachusetts, where cigarette prices would be more than $1.50 lower per pack. For the average adult smoker, that amounts to over $500 in annual savings—creating a powerful incentive to shop across state lines.

When customers leave the state to purchase cigarettes, they also take with them related purchases such as fuel, hot and packaged food, and lottery products. The resulting loss in sales places considerable financial strain on Rhode Island retailers and can ultimately lead to reduced labor hours and fewer employment opportunities. These impacts would be felt most acutely in border communities where we operate stores such as Central Falls and North Smithfield.

As the nation's smallest state geographically, Rhode Island faces unique competitive challenges. Policy decisions made here are especially sensitive to the actions of neighboring states, and Rhode Island's tax policies are never insulated from regional market dynamics. Simply put, a few extra miles of drive time is all it takes for Rhode Island consumers to save on their purchase, and they've proven willing to do so. We see this routinely occur on gasoline sales, so we're confident it will happen in this instance.

While this proposal may be well-intended, it is unlikely to achieve its desired objectives. Rather than discouraging adult smokers, the increase would simply push them to purchase the same products in other states—undermining in-state businesses, jobs, and ultimately, state revenue.

On behalf of our organization and the employees who rely on our Rhode Island retail locations for their livelihoods, we respectfully urge the Committee to remove the proposed cigarette excise tax increase from the Governor's budget.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Russ Colaco
