Hillsgrove House is a judgment-free-zone. You are respected and accepted for what you bring to the table.

It is a place where staff and members can speak openly and honestly about what is happening in life without fear of being censored.

It is a place where one is welcomed in, and each individual's contribution is acknowledged in similar fashion. Hillsgrove House is a place where this contribution isn't weighed and measured, but rather received with the intent in which it was given.

It is a place where friendships are free to blossom in mutual respect and good-natured humor abounds.

It is a place which gives purpose to the day: where each person is called upon to contribute something of themselves in a work-ordered day, whether it be in the garden or in the kitchen cooking lunch for everyone. Working in the business division is also an option.

Hillsgrove House is truly a place which fosters independence in a spirit of growth.

The door is always open. Just be sure those who go before you are done speaking their piece.
