Dear Committee Clerk DiMezza,

Tenants have no right to alter a property that they do not own. The liability if something is done improperly is staggering and dangerous. What if some dies from improperly installed modifications? My insurance company will deny insurance as this would invalidate it. Tenants can come to me to work together on something that could need to be done. My houses are all insulated with high efficiency heating and they should not need tenants interference. Please Oppose this bill.

I oppose House Bill 7655, which would allow tenants to make changes to rental property at their own expense for energy conservation.

On the surface this sounds like a reasonable idea, but automatically allowing tenants to do work without approval of the owner or manager raises a number of problems.

Tenants may not know how to safely perform such work, either for their own safety or without damaging the property.

For example, the bill mentions removable weather-stripping around doors and windows, but if applied incorrectly such weather-stripping cannot be removed without damaging paint and finishes. It also mentions removable interior storm windows, and allowing tenants to DIY install any kind of window seems ill-advised.

The bill states that tenants may also install insulation wrap around hot water heating tanks. Allowing or encouraging tenants to wrap materials around electric or gas heating tanks seems especially problematic. Tenants could easily choose an incorrect material for such wrapping or could install it incorrectly, creating a fire hazard.

Energy conservation is a worthy goal but tenants and landlords should be encouraged to work together on that goal rather than allowing tenants to make changes to property without the owner's prior approval or coordination.

For all of the above reasons, I hope you vote to hold this bill for further consideration.

Sincerely,

Rose Russell
