

Good morning,

I have been a resident of South Kingstown for almost all of my life and currently have college students renting on my street. I also have a daughter studying Nursing at the University of Rhode Island. This ordinance is truly unfair to the students that are trying to get a education and causes undue stress. Parties are going to happen no matter how many people live in a house. I can tell you the stress that it causes my freshman daughter trying to get on campus housing next year. Typically, Junior and Seniors would be moving off campus but because of the limited housing they are having to stay on campus. My daughter is lucky because if housing is not available, she could move home but that is not the case for all. Currently I live on a street that has 2 three-bedroom houses rented to college students. One house has parties the other does not. They both have the same number of tenants. It has nothing to do with how many students live in a house.

Please do not pass this ordinance. It affects the good kids just has much. They can't afford housing if they can even find it.

thank you,
Mary-Liz Grady
