Good morning,

My name is Tom Pazamickas. As a homeowner in Providence, I strongly oppose the proposed large property tax increase currently under legislative review. At a time when households are already struggling with historically high energy prices and bracing for further cost increases due to tariffs, this tax hike would be an irresponsible and damaging move. Citizens are doing their best to stay afloat amid widespread economic uncertainty, and adding a substantial property tax burden only deepens the strain. Instead of compounding financial pressure, our leaders should be looking for more balanced and compassionate solutions. Not making them worse.
