

Dear Committee Clerk Huntley,

The notion that the state should prohibit towns from regulating gas-powered leaf blowers is preposterous.

The state should instead move to phase out all gasoline-powered lawn maintenance equipment, as California has done. We need to get serious about protecting the public from noise and air pollution, and reversing global warming.

Thank you,

John Paulhus
East Greenwich