Dear Members of the Senate Education Committee,

I strongly oppose S2934.

Providence schools already struggle with teacher burnout, low morale, and staffing shortages. Weakening seniority protections, increasing administrative control, and creating uncertainty around pay and job security will only drive more experienced teachers out of our schools.

Students succeed when schools retain strong, experienced educators — not when teachers are treated as disposable.

Real school improvement comes from investing in classrooms, resources, and educator support, not stripping teachers of protections that ensure fairness and stability.

I urge you to reject S2934.

Sincerely,

Annalisa Marchesseault

Providence Teacher
