

Testimony in SUPPORT of Improving the Property Tax Circuit Breaker: S-2031
Senate Committee on Finance

May 12, 2026

Alan Krinsky, Director of Research and Fiscal Policy

The Economic Progress Institute (EPI) supports Senator Ujifusa’s S-2031 which would increase the income threshold and credit amount for Rhode Island’s property tax “circuit breaker” program for seniors and individuals with disabilities.

The income threshold would be increased from $35,000 to $50,000, and the credit amount would be increased from $700 to $850 per year. We think these are reasonable increases to help low-income seniors make ends meet.

However, as a general principle, at EPI we believe that this sort of assistance ought to be based on need and on ability to pay rather than on age or membership in a particular group. Therefore, we think it might be preferable to keep these amounts lower while expanding the property tax “circuit breaker” assistance to other low-income Rhode Islanders. In the absence of such a proposal – or, better yet, one that expands eligibility in all these ways – we do support S-2031 and recommend sending it to the Senate floor.