

Testimony Re: S-2845 Fund Family Home Visiting
Senate Finance Committee

Paige Parks, EdM, Executive Director

Rhode Island KIDS COUNT coordinates the Right from the Start Campaign, a state policy coalition led by eight organizations to advance state policies and budget priorities that help families with young children.

Both Rhode Island KIDS COUNT and the Right from the Start Campaign strongly support Senator Valverde's Senate Bill 2845 that would amend the Family Home Visiting Act to include the First Connections program, implement Medicaid rate increases, update state reporting requirements to include more information on enrollment, staffing, and financing trends, and require the state to meet federal match requirements so they can access all available Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting (MIECHV) funding.

Since 2021, the number of Rhode Island families participating in these proven programs, which improve long-term outcomes for both mothers and babies, dropped by 32% due to staffing and financing challenges. In 2024-2025, the staff turnover rate for home visiting programs in Rhode Island was 28%, significantly higher than the national rate of 10%.

Federal reauthorization of MIECHV funds, which occurred in December 2022, provides level funding for five years. Newly authorized funds to sustain and strengthen the program require a 25% state match to draw down funds. The match is being phased in to give states time to adjust. Rhode Island is one of only a handful of states that has not been able to make the full state match for the first three years and thus has been unable to draw down all federal funds to support these proven programs.

Earlier this year, the Rhode Island Department of Health announced that it had been able to secure $409,765 in state general revenue as a partial state match to receive $1,229,295 in available federal MIECVH funding. This funding will support implementation of Healthy Families America and Parents as Teachers programs in Rhode Island. However, we remain concerned that the state has been unable to make the full target match and is forfeiting approximately $400,000 in available federal MIECHV funds allocated to Rhode Island.

Estimated Rhode Island MIECVH Match Funding Needed

Federal Fiscal Year	RI State Match Challenge Target	Total State Match Secured	Total Federal Funds Forfeited
2024	$242,000	$200,000	$126,000
2025	$356,000	$56,000	$900,000
2026	$535,000	$410,000	$400,000
2027	$787,000	TBD	Up to $2.3 million

Currently Rhode Island is level funded at $8.5 million/year in federal MIECHV grant funds to implement two evidence-based models: Healthy Families America and Parents as Teachers. These programs follow rigorous research models to deliver services that produce lasting improved outcomes for children and families including:

- Significant reductions in child maltreatment, language delays, and emergency room visits for accidents.
- Significant improvements in school readiness, maternal mental health, parental education, and parental employment.

Thank you for this opportunity to testify. We urge passage of this legislation to allocate sufficient funding in the FY2027 budget and beyond to allow the state to draw down the full MIECHV federal funding available so we can sustain the existing programs and restore access to these proven, relationship-based, comprehensive, multi-generational services.

Rhode Island's Evidence-Based Family Home Visiting programs -- Healthy Families America and Parents as Teachers

-- are multi-year, relationship-based interventions designed to help pregnant and parenting families with high needs navigate the challenges of raising babies and young children. These programs follow rigorous research models and produce improved outcomes for children and families including significant reductions in child maltreatment and language delays; and improvements in maternal mental health, parental education/employment, and school readiness.

First Connections is Rhode Island's frontline, rapid-response home visiting service for families with newborns statewide. It is designed to identify babies' and families' needs as early as possible and connect them with services, including maternal mental health services, WIC, Early Intervention, and comprehensive evidence-based family home visiting programs.

Financing & Staffing Problems Mean Fewer Rhode Island Babies & Families Get Help

Since 2021, the number of families served by First Connections has dropped by 51% and the number of families enrolled in a multi-year, evidence-based program has dropped by 32% due to inadequate staffing and financing.

Rhode Island Policymakers Should Invest in Family Home Visiting:

- Increase the Medicaid rates to OHIC recommendations for First Connections, Healthy Families America, and Parents as Teachers family home visiting programs to ensure staffing and financing challenges do not get worse.
- Fund the minimum state home visiting match each year to bring in all available federal Maternal Infant and Early Childhood Home Visiting (MIECHV) funds to improve access to family home visiting. Rhode Island is one of only a handful of states that has forfeited federal funds.
- Pass Rep. Giraldo's and Senator Valverde's bill to establish First Connections in statute, implement Medicaid rate increases, meet the minimum state match, and update state reporting requirements.
