Members of the Senate Housing and Municipal Government Committee:

I wish to offer strong support of Senate bill 2264 . This past winter where we saw the deaths of a number of homeless individuals is a preventable tragedy that can be ameliorated with increased coordination and alerts from cities and towns when temperatures fall to dangerous levels. The same is true when temperatures go in the other direction during the summer months. It is also vital that these warming and cooling centers remain open 24/7 during periods of extremely low or high temperatures.

It is my understanding that the full Senate passed this legislation last year...only to have it languish and die in the House. I would urge the Senate once again to rise to the occasion and pass this bill.

Thank you for your anticipated favorable action.
